

I am writing to confirm that the Commercial Vehicle Unit of Cheshire Police in England have been successfully using the INELO Tachoscan program to examine and enforce EU Drivers Hours regulations since May 2016.

We cannot recommend the program high enough. We find it simple to use, intuitive in its application of the regulations and the charts are readily understood by officers and the drivers themselves when we point out infringements to them, especially with the ability to deliver the reports in the drivers own language. The program is up to date and flexible to suit individual needs.

The support for the product provided by INELO is first class with an issue we identified, being resolved the same day by the support team.

We look forward to using the product for the next several years.
